OFFICIAL BULLETIN.

Washington, Aug. 30. Executive Mansion, 8:30 a. m.—The President slept the greater part of the night, awakening at intervals and retaining the liquid nourishment administered. His general condition is about the same as at the same hour yesterday. Pulse 102, temperature 98.5, respiration 18. Signed, D. W. BLISS, J. K. BARNES, J. J. WOODWARD, ROBERT REYBURN, D. H. AGNEW.

ANOTHER GOOD DAY.

Executive Mansion, Aug. 30.—The President enjoyed another good night's rest, and it is thought starts out on what bids fair to be another good day. He slept well. The stomach still continues to perform its work satisfactorily, and the parotid swelling is progressing favorably. His pulse, temperature and respiration, as compared with yesterday morning, is a slight increase in frequency of pulse, thought to be due to the accumulation of pus in another portion of the glandular swelling, which was observed this morning by Dr. Bliss, who made still another incision and released the closed up pus. On the continuance of favorable symptoms another day of progress is predicted.

UNOFFICIAL BULLETIN.

Executive Mansion, 2 p. m.—In reply to questions Colonel Rockwell said that the President's condition to-day has been about the same as it was yesterday. He has fully held his own but has not gained perceptibly in strength. No special importance is attached to the high pulse as shown by the noon bulletin. It is attributed principally to the irritation caused by the cutting of the parotid swelling this morning. "As long as" Colonel Rockwell said, "the gland continues to be a source of almost constant disturbance we must expect these constant fluctuations of pulse." Since the noon bulletin, however, the President's pulse has gone down again to 110. He seems to be doing well.

BLAINE TO LOWELL.

Washington, Aug. 30.—The following was sent this afternoon: To James A. Lowell, Minister, London: The President's condition has not materially changed since my last dispatch. Another incision was made this morning in the parotid gland with very satisfactory results. Pus flows freely and the swelling grows less. The pulse at this hour, 2 p. m., is lower than during the forenoon and yesterday, but on both good days it is higher than his other good symptoms would seem to warrant. It is now 110. At noon it was 116. Signed, BLAINE, Secretary.

OFFICIAL BULLETIN.

Executive Mansion, 12:30 p. m.—At the morning dressing another small incision was made in the lower part of the swelling of the right side of the President's face which was followed by a free discharge of healthy looking pus. A similar discharge took place through openings. The swelling is perceptibly smaller and looks better; the wound remains in an unchanged condition; there has been a little rise of temperature since morning and the pulse is more frequent. In other respects the condition is the same. Pulse 116, temperature 98.9, respiration 18. Signed, D. W. BLISS, J. K. BARNES, J. J. WOODWARD, ROBERT REYBURN, D. H. AGNEW.

NO CHANGE.

Executive Mansion, 4 p. m.—There has been no noticeable change in the President's condition except that the rise of the pulse has fallen to 108. Symptoms generally continue about as yesterday.

OFFICIAL BULLETIN.

Executive Mansion, 5:30 p. m.—The President has passed comfortably through the day and he has taken the usual amount of nourishment by mouth with stimulating enemata at periods. The rise in temperature is a degree less than yesterday at the same time and the pulse is less than at noon to-day. The parotid swelling has been discharging more freely and is continuing to diminish in size. Pulse 109, temperature, 99.5, respiration 18. Signed, D. W. BLISS, J. K. BARNES, J. J. WOODWARD, ROBERT REYBURN, D. H. AGNEW.

HIS MIND CLEAR.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—A Washington special says: Captain Henry telegraphs as follows: Executive Mansion, 9 p. m.—To friends in Ohio: The improved symptoms I spoke of last night at this hour continued through the night and day. The swelling in the right side of the face, forward and below the ear, has discharged quite freely during the day, and especially about sunset. The doctors appear to feel confident that they are nearly through with that trouble. Like an enormous carbuncle, it had for days caused intense pain to the already exhausted patient. At times he could not repress a moan with each breath. The fevered and vitiated blood going past into his head caused the brain to wander at times until his iron will could regain its faculties. So the struggle continued several days. The whole strength of will power was exhausted to keep reason enthroned for a little time, and still the brain worked on. It was a few days and long weary nights of pain, a terrible fight with fearful odds against the feeble and wounded man. His vitality preserved through life by correct habits came to his relief, and Gen. Garfield won as he had in a hundred conflicts. His mind is now bright and clear, and the ugly sore near the ear has spent its force. This morning about 3 o'clock the President awoke and made some effort to clear his throat from the mucous that had accumulated from the swollen gland. Dr. Boynton, who is with him almost constantly night and day, assisted him in the effort, and the President remarked, "Ah, Silas, how many more stations must we stop at before we get through." He referred to the parotid swelling as a long stop on the road to recovery. I saw Dr. Bliss a few moments ago, and said: "Doctor, I am flooded with telegrams and letters asking about the exact condition of the President, what shall I say to-night?"

Said he, "You can say the President is on the higher plane toward recovery. The President did splendidly to-day; his stomach worked well. The swelling is discharging freely, and general symptoms improved. The Doctor rounded off with an emphatic and confident nod of the head, "he is going to get well." The children have not been in the sick room, although they would like very much to see their father. They think they will go in and see him in the morning. I mention this fact to remind the reader that amid all the hopeful and rosy reports the President is still weak and that any little accident or incident would cut any chances of recovery. Careful nursing is required from this on more than surgical science. The Doctors and nurses say the President has been more cheerful to-day than yesterday. I saw Mrs. Garfield to-day, just as she was completing a letter to the President's mother. She wore the same cheery look of sunshine, but is not as enthusiastic as some of the papers have stated about the favorable symptoms and improvement of the President. She is thoughtful, watchful and cheerful, but not enthusiastic. She asked me yesterday if the President's old regiment would hold its reunion this year, and where. I replied at Gallion, Ohio, on the 31st inst. She seemed pleased and said the President did not like to have such things put off on his account. To sum up, I think the points of great danger are now nearly passed. I think the President is feeble with a feverish body, an ugly, painful carbuncle or sore on the side of his face, his strength almost gone in the long, desperate struggle for life, yet he will live. Why should he not? The doctors say he will and the nurses think he will. In less than forty-eight hours from now sixty long days and nights will have been spent in this battle for life; for eight weary weeks the Nation has stood so near the verge that the watchers of God were heard by the children of men. "He will hear their prayers."

THE LATEST.

Washington, Aug. 30.—If there is any change to-day in the President it is for the better, but it is small. He is just holding his own. He is not expected to gain much for some days. The discharge of the gland has relieved him. His pulse at 10:30 p. m. was about like last night, and the higher pulse to-day was merely temporary. The ball has not shifted much to-day. Many think the change in its position caused the present strong rally. It is not impossible the ball may pass off through the rectum. The nearest approach to solid food that he takes is milk toast and chicken broth. Solid food will not be given for some time yet. There is no danger of the gland sloughing off. The many offers to cure the President by magnetism and otherwise are received and rejected with thanks. The swelling on the face though painful is diminishing.

Wool Market.

Boston, Aug. 30.—There is steady demand in wool; prices remain unchanged; manufacturers are beginning to realize that wool is as low now as it is likely to be for some time to come and are disposed to purchase more freely. Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces are selling at 40¢@41¢; for X and XX 42¢@43¢; for XX and above and XX Michigan and Wisconsin fleeces 30¢@40¢ for X of same lots not up in condition, 38¢@39¢; medium and No. 1 fleeces 44¢@47¢; for Michigan and Ohio delaine and combings selections are in demand and have been selling at 44¢@46¢, and for fine Michigan and Ohio delaine up to 48¢; No. 1 combing and unwashed combing has been selling for 30¢@32¢ including considerable Indiana; other western and coarse unwashed combing 25¢@28¢ cents per pound. Unwashed fleeces remain unchanged with steady demand for fine and medium grades. California wool has been quiet. In foreign wools very little has been done. There is a very confident feeling on the part of holders and many are indifferent about selling at present.

Killed His Father-in-Law.

Milwaukee, Aug. 30.—To-night a young German, Hermann Hildon, shot and instantly killed his father-in-law, Paul Kimmer, and mortally wounded his mother, Mrs. Paul Kimmer. There had been family troubles. He was arrested.

FORESTS AFIRE.

London, Aug. 30.—At a London Central prayer-meeting yesterday a special prayer was made for President Garfield. More forest fires are reported from different parts of Algeria. Twelve hundred hectares of forest are ablaze in the rear of Algiers.

Wounded by Burglars.

Whitehall, N. Y., Aug. 30.—The residence of S. H. A. Griswold and A. C. Hopson were entered by burglars last night, and valuables amounting to two thousand dollars taken. Two suspicious looking men boarded the train bound south, and orders were telegraphed for their arrest at Mechanicsville, and two officers, in attempting to do so, were fatally shot. Silverware, etc., were found on the train.

A Total Loss.

Camden, Maine, Aug. 30.—The steamer City of Richmond, in a fog this morning, ran on Mark Island, Penobscot Bay. The captain and part of the crew came here in a small boat, and chartered the steamer Pioneer, which has gone to take sixty passengers to Rockland. She runs on the Portland and Mount Desert Line. The Richmond is probably a total loss. The passengers landed in safety on the island, which is not inhabited.

Rumors of a Purchase.

San Francisco, Aug. 30.—A Eureka, Nevada, dispatch says: Rumors are current here that the Central Pacific Railroad Company has purchased the Eureka & Palisade Road. If the rumors are true it is supposed that the purchasers have the object of commanding the key to the railroad situation in Eastern Nevada. There is believed to be a good deal of checkmating going on in railroad circles.

Another "Crank."

New York, Aug. 30.—The Post's Washington special says: The police have just arrested another "crank" at the White House gate. It was a poor colored man, manifestly insane. He was bent upon killing every man who was not a Garfield man and he had a large tin can into which he proposed to place their heads.

Races.

Sheepshead Bay, Aug. 30.—The Coney Island Jockey Club race course never looked finer than to-day. The attendance was large, track good, and weather highly enjoyable. First race, three-quarters of a mile dash, Bonnie Lizzie was first, Sir Hunt second and Fellowship third. Time 1.15.

Carrying Sympathy.

San Francisco, Aug. 30.—Among the passengers on the steamer "Grenada" which arrived last Saturday was Hon. L. Montufar, special envoy of President Barras and Republic of Guatemala, to convey to Washington a message of sympathy.

Explosion.

New Haven, Aug. 30.—A terrific explosion occurred in the loading room of the Winchester Repeating Arms Company blowing off the roof. Nine men were badly injured.

More Gold.

New York, Aug. 30.—The Steamer "Massachusetts" brought in $1,440,000 in Russian gold.

Base Ball.

Detroit, Aug. 30.—Chicago, 12; Detroit, 8.

It was only ten years before he was Dictator on the Loire that Gambetta became a French citizen. He was naturalized by a formal adoption of the French nationality when about to start to prosecute the law in Paris. He largely owes his success to a devoted maternal aunt. After receiving his citizenship to practise law he wished to go to Paris. His father, deeming success there hopeless without money or interest, opposed this, when his Aunt Jennie Massabie, who had an annuity of about $500, said she would go to live in Paris and give him a home. They took a house in the Quartier Latin. On Sundays Gambetta had his friends about him, who retain the pleasant recollection of the old lady's kindly ways, shrewd sense and savory dishes. Her death, in 1877, was a great grief to her nephew.

John L. Carrillo, of Los Angeles, Cal., believes he has found the mine described by a Jesuit priest who travelled over Arizona more than one hundred years ago. Large trees have grown around the shaft, and the dump is covered with vegetation. This dump is supposed to have upon it 3,000 tons of ore, averaging $100 to the ton.

To keep his neighbors' cattle out of his fields an ingenious farmer stuck a few nails through a clothes line. A shrewd man saw this device, and soon afterward patented the "barbed wire" fence. The farmer from whom he got the suggestion now pays him tribute, and the income to the manufacturer is said to be about $100,000 per month.

The name and exterior of the Pacific Garden, Chicago, remains the same as when it was a resort for beer and music, but the unwary sinner who enters now finds himself in a religious mission, exposed to the exhortation of an able evangelist.

ANTELOPE JIM.

For Twenty Years a Hunter on the Colorado Plains.

In That Time He Kills Twenty-Four Thousand Antelopes.

Can it be possible that there is in all Colorado a person so benighted as not to have heard of Jim Hamlin, the celebrated hunter of the Colorado plains, the very man who has supplied at least one-third of the antelope meat placed upon sale in our markets? In the year 1858 this self same Jim left his home in the far east with many who at that time came to seek their fortunes in the Rockies. He came not with the purpose of shouldering pick and shovel with which to dig from the bowels of the earth the fortune he so much desired. But instead he relied upon his rifle, knowing as he did that wild game was as plentiful in the Rockies and on the plains surrounding them as was the gold and silver. From youth up he had been taught to handle the rifle, and among the boys of his old home he was looked upon as a veritable William Tell. When twelve years old he could shoot a copper or an egg from the fingers of a school mate without fears of doing him bodily injury. While on his journey across the American desert Jim supplied the entire train with game, brought down by his unerring aim, and although at that time a mere youth he was a holy terror to the redskins who infested the plains on the Santa Fe trail in 1858. Jim had never had but very little experience with the "pesky critters," as he likes to call the Indians, but he soon gained a reputation as an excellent and shrewd Indian fighter. At his home Jim had been accustomed to hunting deer, bear and other large game known to that section of the country, but never had he pulled his rifle on the pro-gornered antelope, the fleet-footed and favorite game of the plains. He was at first at a loss to know how to hunt these always wild and frightened creatures, but he soon accomplished the art, and he is today the crack huntsman of the plains. During the first year of his residence in Colorado Jim Hamlin tried elk hunting in the mountains, but he soon abandoned this life for a preferable one on the plains, and since 1850 he has devoted his entire attention to antelope hunting. His choice hunting grounds are on the plains in the vicinity of Kit Carson, Hugo, and on the creeks, or rather creek beds, which are so numerous in that section. In earlier years there were no game laws restricting the shooting of wild game, but as it is now Jim is given but four months in which to do his season's work, these months being September, October, November and December.

For twenty years in which this renowned hunter has roved at will on the plains it is estimated that he has killed, on an average, 1,200 antelope per annum, thus giving a total of 24,000 antelope killed in the time. To Mr. Hamlin's credit it can be said that he never slaughters game for the sport that it affords him. It is a matter of business with him, and the game killed is dressed and sent to the eastern markets. The fore quarters of the antelope are never used for meat, but left upon the ground where the animal is shot, the hind quarters and the hide being the only parts preserved by the hunters. Jim Hamlin has, for years past, lived in the old block house on Squirrel Creek, known as the Townsend ranch, about twenty-seven miles east of this city. It is one of the oldest ranch buildings in the State and makes one of the best houses imaginable for a person of Jim Hamlin's disposition and calling. At this house he is now preparing for his coming campaign against the antelope, which opens on the first of September, and by the first of January, 1882, there will be from 1,000 to 1,500 less antelope running wild on the plains in the vicinity of his camp than there now is.—Colorado Springs Gazette.
